Every school has its cherished traditions.
passed on from chass to edass, from year to year.
The long distances, mad dashes, endless lines.
serions moments, and sheer joy of socealizing these remain ad ways integrad parts of life at selowh. The high amademic standing of Semior is a tradition which gives our diphoma meaning and worth.
And though each year new teachers come and leave.
there are some respected instructors whose vers presence here is traditional.

Becanse we fee that the traditions of semion are son important and vital a part of the story of our sechool years. we have chosen to dedicate the 190:3 Wh hirligig to (ills traditions.

GHS traditions evolve with yearly variations into ivy-covered practices. Change itself is a traditional process necessary to Senior's rapid growth.

GHS Traditions

WITH BLUE AND WHITE streamers on their cars, students flaunt their loyalty and spirit.

". . . at such moments school spirit grows and deepens"

INFECTIOUS school spirit spreads to students as cheerleaders rush onto the field.

SINGING TOGETHER, students end each assembly program. with the "Alma Mater.

LANDMARK loaded with sentiment is still a vivid memory.

Sometimes words are too combrous to cepress our real feedings especially when the feelings are deep and cherished. 'The grawity of 'Torchlight tapping, the a wareness of mity when we prey or when we spontaneonsly sing our old " Alana Mater" at sum moments as these loyatty grows and derpens. Nome than diecers at games or pride in Senions aceomplishments, the lowe and respeet we hate for this eommmonty-within-a-commmaty make up that intamgible cuality called "school spirit." ()we traditions are dear to ms. so we resist change: yet when we must get to a 7 : 30 class or have homeroom and stuly hall in the anditorimm, we atjust to innorations withont a break in stride.

COLLEGE BOARDS give seniors a strenuous Saturday and reveal relative standing of each.

It takes a corle of behavior to guide us as we work and live with others day after day. Expressing the attitndes and ethies we strive to mphold. the GiIS II mor Corle reminds us that onr school is part of a chamater. an individual, a life. Conscious that every day prepares as in some way for life after high school and after college, we plan for the future.

"Expressing the ethics and attitudes we strive to uphold ..."

Commelors direct us, pick us up when we fall, wisely keep silent when crucial decisions must be made. Ahility, aptitude. and achievement tests give us insight into our potentials. Set, in the traddion of ons guidance program. we are never redueed from people to mere test scores.

VERTICAL VIEW of main building reminds one of three long flights of stairs.

UNDER THE CLOCK is everyone's traditional meeting place.

One eamot be at Scnior long without realizing that distance has its vertieal as well as horizontal dimension. After three flights of stairs a person wonders if he really wants to attend class after all. And the after-lunch trek from the parking lot's far reaches to the seience building harries short, puffing sophomores and irritates seniors. who resent a mere bell's effort to hurry their steps. Yet even complainers take pride in this sprawling eampus.

Rainy weather transforms the campus into a confusion of muddy walks and puddles. Umbrcllas pop open; we jog from building to building complaining. but glat that traffie jams at every door justify tardiness to class.

". . . as traditional as buying and selling are the vivid contrasts"

Somebody is always selling something at GHS. From light bulbs to decals, from barbecue to candy, from play or concert tickets to pencils - students are invariably promoting, soliciting, peddling. They help each other: "If you buy a fruit cake I'll buỹ a Whirlie tag." 'Ther sell at school; they sell after school - ringing doorbells, making telephone calls. And with the moner - as always - they finance service projects. a student Directory, High Life, and Whirligig.

Just as traditional as buying and selling are the vivid contrasts at Senior: the latest in equipment and buildings near outmoded structures; expansive campus but jammed classrooms; gleaming '63 hardtops by old jalopies; mellow, seasoned teachers and eager new ones: best of the old rules and material, but the newest methods, the fresh approach.

SUPERINTENDENT P. J. Weaver greets students at annual faculty tea for seniors.

As the 1962-63 school year began, the school board, superintendent, and other administrators were faced with many problems. One which concerned GHS most was the great increase in tenth grade enrollment. To help in solving the Grimsley overcrowding an early schedule was devised, bringing three dozen of the 100 teachers to work at $7: 30$, with their first class at $7: 45$. Thus classrooms were available more periods a day. As a more permanent solution they began construction of the new Ben L. Smith High School in southwest Greensboro.

The administration accepted the opportunity for GHS to be among the pioneer schools in the United States to try out a two-hours-per-day composition laboratory devised and supervised by the NEA in Washington. The board arranged for lay readers to help the three participating teachers at GHS.

advancing our school

The PTSA board, in their meetings this year, planned programs to bring about a clearer understanding among parents, teachers, and students.

The first meeting was a reception at which the parents and teachers became better acquainted. Further understanding resulted from visits to classrooms, following the schedule of their son or daughter and there hearing something of the teacher's plans for the year.

A DESK piled high with work awaits Mr. Routh each morning of the school year.

MR. ROUTH completes his twenty-ninth year as principal of GHS.

A. P. Routh is essential to the success of GHS

Obviously a school of the size and complexity of GHS can operate smoothly only if it is directed by a competent principal such as Mr. A. P. Routh. Faced with this school's largest enrollment, Mr. Routh met the need for more space by somehow finding or improvising a place for every teacher to hold classes. Sixty-six homerooms - with over 100 teachers and 2200 students - in a school built for 1500 , created massive and numerous problems. The 7:30 shift for 35 teachers, the scheduling of two periods together for composition laboratory students, arranging for assemblies on alternate Tuesdays for juniors and seniors, and on the other Tuesdays for sophomores, helping Mr. Hazelman play host to the American Bandmasters Association, and being constantly present at concerts, athletic events, dances, plays, and contests kept Mr. Routh very busy.

SENIOR TEA gives an opportunity for a closer friendship between Mr. and Mrs. Routh and students.

OFFICERS of the faculty club are president Joyner. vicepresident Gamble. secretary-treasurer Roe.

MR. CLENN is a friemd to students as well as an able assistant principal.

Congenial teachers help students through the year

The faculty at GHS served not only as teachers but also as cheerleaders, fans, and advisors to the many students at GHS. By the second semester the number of faculty members had passed the 100 mark. The lack of adequate classroom space made some teachers change classes as often and as widely as students. With at least one-third of the teachers arriving for work at 7:30, there were always two different faculty meetings instead of one, so that many teachers rarely saw each other.

Indispensable to the school program were Mr. Lody Glenn, whose cheery greeting was a bright spot in every student's day, and Miss Jean Wood, whose careful handling of the clinic and school attendance kept absences to a minimum.

COMPETENT dean of students at GHS is Miss Wood.

TEACHERS HUDDLE together during "bomb scare" under wraps borrowed from gallant traffic squad.

JUNIOR HIGH presidents Justice, Perry, McGraw, Ryals.
Cannon accept class colors on behalf of incoming sopho-

Sophomores become integral part of performing

VARSITY cheerleaders Hackney and Richardson are happy and they know it.

We are the sophomores - wide-eyed and innocent
We are initiated by our first six weeks of incongruency
We are the massive majority surveyed through the convex scrutiny of upperclassmen
We are the subservient caste, bowing to seniority
We are cardboard and ink - mere triplicates in the files
We are the essence of conformity; we have the Babbit habit
We are a shuffle of Weejuns in a dusty corridor
We are "Hey, you! Off the grass!"
In our ignorance we are buffeted from elevator to elevator
We are the pencil peddlers
We have finally met those notorious teachers whose far-reaching reputations had infiltrated our secure junior high world We are the unsung Alma Mater
We are the long-range projects, the deadlines met the night before

- Just wait until next year!

"Idyllness" is instilled into sophomore curriculum

SOPHOMORES contribute expert performances to marching band shows.

CIRYOUS sophomores get a sneak preview of W'hirligig.

FOOTBALL spirit and attendance are augmented by sophomores.

The juniors, ever changing their plans and dreams,

EVER REACHINC, for knowledge, a Junior uses all available resources.

are fervently searching for success in the future

We are the Juniors - the "middle class"
We are the in-between, struggling for greatness
Ours is the relief of two years completed.
Ours is the fanciful farce - "The Whole Truth"
We are the producers of the Thanksgiving Assembly
We are the marshals, sashed with smiles
Ours is the exhaustion of PSAT tests
Ours is the life of American literature
We are the short stories, shorter than we thought
We are the remnants of a name, too soon a memory Ours is the tangibility of a symbol - the class ring Ours are the friendships, cut deep into our lives
Ours is the spring prom - a namesake shared with seniors.
We are the leaves of grass nourished by degrees
We thread the sidewalks of life with unsure feet
Ours is the third door - the future seniors
We are the guides of next year's success
We are the everchanging dreams, searching for the future.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS are, front row, President Newman, Pritchard. Advisor Miss Meredith. Back row: Cohle, Boyles.

JUNIOR MARSHULS - Front row: Garrett, Massengale, Slaffer, Bullard. Knedlick. Steifle. Vaughn, and Roos. Second rou: Greene, ふlierrill, Hutton. Cros-, Blackman, Jones, and McLean. Third row: Strange, Burton, Early, Bartier, larnes. Nichols, Patterson, Coble, Feig, and Duncan.

Ushering at programs, Junior Marshals serve GHS

HEAD MARSHALS and advinrs are Steifle, Ridens, Price, Jones, Barnes, and Parker.

In immaculate white dresses and neatly pressed dark suits, the Junior Marshals served our school with efficiency. Their friendly smiles made visitors feel welcome at GHS. The traditional sashes added to their striking appearance. Handing out programs, taking tickets, and ushering at school affairs were only a few of their numerous duties. From the first band concert in the fall, through various plays, and finally to graduation, the Marshals performed ably and well. Head Marshal Phillips Jones and thirty-five others had the honor of ushering excited seniors and proud parents at the solemn graduation exercises, the apex of their activities throughout the year. All these experiences were just part of the distinction of being a Junior Marshal.

Seniors seek knowledge, recognition as individuals

IN THE test tubes of time we find knowledge.

We are the seniors - a reminder of past heritage
We are the elders - the confident ones
We are the product of established tradition
We are the buttoned-down madness - the disciples of insanity
We are the spirit - the fight song - the "Alma Mater"
We are the frenzied pleas and the shouts of victory
We are the triumph and the celebration
We are an assembly's hilarity, seriousness, and applause
We are the never-ending plea of "Would you like to buy . . . ?"
Ours is the mad dash to the parking lot - the gobbled lunch
We are the rhythmic scrape of shoes across the dance floor
We are the wild gyrations of the latest dance step
We are the pixies of May Day - entranced by beauty
We are the remembrances of Class Day's satires
We are the tears and joys of graduation
We are today's fun and fellowship
These three years have been an introduction to life
We have lived, laughed, loved
We are the companions of time - hurrying on the future
We are the architects of things to come
We are the leaders - the followers; we are now and forever

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS (seated): Zimmerman, President Earle, Reed. (Stunding): Hedrick. Advisor Maddox.

TERII PAPERS are so much fun!

THE LAST Greensboro Senior High ring is a senior's mark of distinction.

TOD\I s suggestion is ... ???

Smiles from our "buddies" relieve the day's tension

We are the midnight hours - reserved for cramming
We are the advised - in need of direction
We are the classroom - the cracked walls - the worn floors
We are the student government - the unmeasured opportunity
Ours is the old ring - a collector's item

MR. GLENN gives another of his serious lectures.

IT COMES easier the second time around.

PRACTICING a new cheer, "If you're happy and you know it." are varsity cheerleaders Pfaff, Miller. Harrod. Barrier, Richardson. Schaefer. in front: and Pearce. Stanley, Moody. Brathhaw, Harkney, back.

Cheerleaders contribute spirit to GHS traditions

Throughout the sports seasons, crowds of Whirlie supporters lent their enthusiastic yells, urging the teams on to victory. The volume of sound and enthusiasm in the stands reached a new height, impelled by eleven dynamic cheerleaders with powerful vocal cords and even stronger school spirit and energy.

The cheerleaders, in their blue and white uniforms bearing a big "G," sparked spontaneous enthusiasm in the cheering section at every game. Their leadership of the frenzied voices rocked the stadium with the fight song, the "Alma Mater," and the many victory yells of pleased crowds. Colorful goalpost decorations, skits at pep rallies, and antics of the Whirlibird also aroused the spirit of Whirlie fans. Through vigorous practice and effort, the cheerleaders contributed vocal school spirit to support the Whirlie tradition.

Monogram Club promotes good sportsmanship

The Monogram Club this year was composed of boys who were vitally interested in the advancement of athletics and good sportsmanship in every game. Members proudly wore their white sweaters that sported the letter "G." graphic proof that they had excelled in some phase of sports.

Monogram Club boys helped the athletics department in many ways. They sold tickets, operated first-down markers, and sold programs at football games. Thirsty football players were always delighted to see the club's "water boys" running onto the field. A club goal was one hundred per cent attendance at all sports events, and members worked steadily to arouse GHS support for wrestling matches and swimming meets, as well as for basketball and baseball games.

Whirlie gridders are second in Central Conference

August 20th, the opening day of Whirlie football drills, attracted a record number of boys who wished to try their skills on the gridiron. From the hundred or more that reported, there was an abundance of talent, speedy backs as well as aggressive linemen. The varsity team resulted in a combination of seasoned veterans and inexperienced sophomores and juniors.

The Whirlies opened the 1962 season at Raleigh. where they astonished the crowd by upsetting the Caps, who were considered one of the top contenders for the state 4-A championship. The victory was also sweet revenge for a 29-0 loss to the Raleigh team in the semifinals of the 1961 season.

POWELL displays an uncanny sense of balance while moving ahead for valuable yardage.

Playoff opportunity falters in 0-0 tie with Reynolds

The Whirlies disappointingly lost their next two games; however, they recovered to win five in a row before losing to High Point. In the final game of the season, they had to defeat Reynolds to gain a playoff berth, but the two teams fought to a tie, and the Whirlie football season ended.

The backfield that led the Whirlies to their 6-3-1 record and second place in the conference, included quarterback John Hedrick, halfbacks Mickey Andrews and Keith Gulledge, and fullback Bob Powell. Andrews gained all-conference honors while Powell was all-state and all-southern. Andrews also was high scorer for the Whirlies with eleven touchdowns. Outstanding linemen were Bobby Nuckolls, Dick Burton, Earl Strickland, Lynn Duncan, Dave Layton, Wayne Burgess, Cotton Hartig, Eddie Walke, Leon Oakley, and James Walker. The defensive backfield was led by linebackers Powell, Branden James, and Arlie Gribble, and halfbacks Gulledge, Wayne Edge, and Mike Harrison.

COACH JAMIESON and defensive captain discuss strategy to subdue the opposing attack.

JV Football Team ties for conference championship

Byerly, 'Teer. Third row: Haire. Wall. Shearin, Goldfarb, Pressley, Ingold, Leonard, Murphy, Garner, Floyd, Marshall, Clifford. The JI:s lont unly unce in eight games.

Spirit and desire are two words that apply to the 1962 junior varsity football team. The little Whirlies, the smallest team in the conference and lacking in a real abundance of talent, fought their way to a record of seven wins and only one loss. Each game was a rugged, hard-fought contest. Coaches Bruce Morton and John Gordy named backs Ben McMakin, Sandy Byerly, Don Dunn, John Marshall, and Steve Martin, and linemen Charles Pressley, Al Richbourg, Bishop Byerly, and Mike Locklar the outstanding players of the team. Nearly fifty boys remained with the JV's for the entire season, and twenty-seven of them were starters at one time or another. The Whirlie JV's opened the season by downing Page 13-0. They then triumphed over Burlington, 13-6, before suffering their only loss of the season at the hands of High Point. Five straight victories followed. This determined group of boys will surely contribute to the success of future varsity teams.

Whirlies finish strong to place second in conference

Magnificent is the word to describe the Whirlie basketball team's effort in the 1963 state tournament. Even though they lost, and by only a single basket, the GHS boys really gave the students an experience to remember with pride.

The Whirlies experienced a highly successful regular season, placing second in the conference with an 11-3 record, and obtaining a 16-6 overall mark. Pat Moriarty, an all-conference and all-state selection, was the big gun for the Whirls, with an eighteenpoint average. Bob Powell and Earl Strickland, three-year starters, and Bob Martin and John Hedrick contributed valuable support.

Bid for state title halted in final overtime second

The Whirlies had their off-nights, losing by as many as twenty points, but often they displayed an awesome offense, winning by 39 points in one game. They had to win their final four regular season games to qualify for the tournament, and having accomplished this, the GHS team prepared to present tournament fans a thrilling exhibition.

BIG PAT VORIDRTY outmancusers two Burlington Bulldogeto gain control for the Whirlits.

In their first post-season game the Whirlies downed Durham to advance to the semifinals against a highly touted Myers Park team. A victory over the Mustangs set the stage for a heart-stopping finale. Not until the final overtime second, and playing without three regulars, did the Whirlies lose to the Rocky Mount Blackbirds. Junior Alex Cheek proved himself a real star in the semifinal and final tourney games.

Coach McCall's JV team, which suffered only one defeat, Coach Gordy's "B" team, and Coach Morton's "C" tean each experienced a successful season, insuring Coach Jamieson of future championship basketball.

JV BASKETBALL TEAM - Kneeling: Van Hecke, Shearin, Dunn, MeMakin, Landry. Standing: Trainer Tucker, Miller, Burgess, Linker, Fellers, Dempsey.

Wrestlers capture conference and sectional titles

PREPARATION for a wrestling match requires strenuous. physical workouts as illustrated above.

The unheralded Whirlie wrestling team, working long hours in daily practice sessions, recorded one of their best seasons in many years at GHS. The Whirlie matmen lost their opening match with Danville, Virginia, but rebounded to win fourteen in a row. The Whirlies completely dominated Central 4-A conference action and continued to place first in the sectional meet.

Several GHS wrestlers proved themselves among the best in the state. James Walker, whose only loss was in the opening match of the season, won the state heavyweight title, while Leroy Cobb advanced to the finals before losing. Cobb, Dick Burton, and Ronnie Hendricks were undefeated during regular season competition. Other standouts were Robbie Greene and Steve Martin.

Swimmers win ECC Invitational, are second in state

Mr. Robert Sawyer, in only his second season as swimming coach at GHS, guided the Whirlie tankmen to a highly respectable $9-4$ record. The Whirlies also were second among ten teams in the state meet, first in the ECC Invitational, and seventh in the UNC Invitational, in which 29 teams from all over the South were represented.

Jim Burwell, team captain and state 100 yard freestyle champion, Buddy Rudd, Larry Hannibal, Randy Wade, Buddy Robinson, and Dennis Hurdle spearheaded the GHS swimmers. Wade, Hannibal, and Rudd each broke Senior High records. Jack Martin and Bill Mullins played an important role in the success of relay teams, and a number of sophomores, including Ted Burnett, David Quinn, and Al Richbourg landed starting positions.

WHIRLEE SWIMMERS maintain a keen sense of competition, even during daily workouts.

In its last season as the Greensboro Senior High Whirlies, the 1962 baseball team, again dominating Central 4-A Conference action, swept to a fifth straight conference championship. The Whirlie baseballers attained a 12-2 league record and were 13-4 in all games.

The combination of excellent pitchers and experienced hitters enabled the Whirlie nine to win by as many as fourteen runs. Sophomores Alex Cheek, 8-1, and Wayne Burgess, 2-1, and junior Bob Martin, 3-2. gave very creditable mound performances, as their records prove. Charlie Ephland, Tommy Fuller, and Bones O'Briant batted better than .400, while Steve Davis, Harold Holyfield, and Dallas Peoples each surpassed the .300 mark. Catcher Leroy Cobb and second baseman Bobby Oakley, both defensive standouts, completed the starting lineup.

nine to fifth straight Central $4-\mathrm{A}$ conference title

The only two conference losses were dealt by rival Page and by High Point. Wilmington defeated the Whirlies twice in non-conference contests. Included in the GHS victories was a $7-3$ win over the touring Cranbrook, Michigan, nine.

The 1962 junior varsity baseball team experienced a highly successful, undefeated season, winning twenty consecutive games. Coach John Gordy named pitchers Mike Henry, David Patton, Ed McLean, and Freddy Jones outstanding varsity prospects along with power hitters Tommy Hudson, Dennis Hurdle, Basil Bullard, and Burtis Burr.

Varsity coach Lewis McCall, with his entire pitching staff, prospective JV's, and a number of valuable '62 reserves returning, can expect another winning baseball team for the 1963 season.

POLE VAULTER Pearce clears the bar in one of track's many exciting events.

With the arrival of spring, 1962, an excellent group of trackmen took to the cinders for coach Claude Manzi. Hours of running and physical conditioning paid numerous dividends to the Whirlie track team, which won all three triangular meets with conference foes, placed second in the conference and sectional meets, and fourth in the state meet. Mickey Andrews, Bob Powell, Alan Robinson, Paul Early, Mike Schlosser, and many ethers sparked the outstanding team.

The 1962 cross country team, coached by Bob Sawyer and led by Harry Boyte and Buddy Robinson, won its two conference meets, tied for first in the sectional meet, and tied for third in the state meet.

Tennis gains renewed popularity on GHS campus

Tennis, a minor sport at GHS which has gained increasing popularity in the past few years, attracted a large number of boys last spring. The 1962 team found winning a difficulty, however, and ended the season with a record of three wins and five losses. The Whirlie netters defeated Burlington, Winston-Salem Gray, and High Point but lost to all remaining Central 4-A Conference opponents, including two setbacks by Page High. Seniors Don Cunningham and Bob Groat and junior Frank Crothers were Coach Bondanella's outstanding players.

The 1963 team will be loaded with talent and experience and should be a top contender for the conference title. Van Gunter, Chuck Hughes, Kim Mann, Robert Whitaker, Ret Turner, and Crothers return for another year as regular performers.

COACH BONDANELLI and temis team pause for a moment of humor before leaving for an out-of-town trip.

Golf Team places well in all conference competition

IETERAN Howard Permar prepare to contribute to the -uccens of the 1963 team.

In the past five years golf at GHS has been only a slightly regarded spring sport. A lack of interest among students has produced merely average teams, which have placed low in conference standings. The 1962 team was a vast improvement, however. The Whirlies competed against seven other conference teams in eight Central 4-A Conference matches and placed from second to fourth in each match. Throughout the season there was keen competition to gain the top six playing positions. Sherwood Jessup, the number one man, placed second in the state tournament with a 36 -hole score of 144. He was also presented the Charles Baker Golf Trophy on Awards Day. Howard Permar, Bill James, Paul Gardiner, Dan Howe, and Spencer Sullivan completed the top six players. Coach Jamieson expects a further improved Whirlie golf team in 1963.

Practice builds agility, speed, and a winning team

IN CURRY-GHS game, Nancy Yates is about to score.

At the shrill blow of a whistle, a team of eleven girls spring forward, eager to score against their well-matched opponents. Although an agile member of the defensive team dives for the ball, the rolling sphere eludes all hands. Repeated attempts to tame the bouncing object prompt referees to mete out penalties. After the dust has settled, the victors run joyously from the field, while "trailing" losers rehash each play in hopes of doing better next time...

Though victories are important, the Girls' Athletic Association means more to its members than the outcome of a single game. The GAA, an extracurricular club led by Gail Weston, sponsored a volleyball Sport's Day for the junior highs of Greensboro and also participated in a volleyball play day at Page High School. Later in the year members met at Woman's College for another day of track events - tennis, volleyball, bowling, and golf. They took new members into the group early in the year at an open house and introduced the incoming girls to the purposes and regulations of the organization.

Six periods every day, girls in physical education classes descended upon the girls' gym. First they learned the rules of the games from Mrs. Lambert ; then they began to master the skills of volleyball, speedball, and basketball. In January, health books were issued to aid in the study of physiology. Tumbling, tennis, and softball were among the spring sports which concluded a rewarding year of athletics and health education.

CHOIR MEMBERS put in many hours of special rehearsals in preparation for American Bandmasters program.

Beginning girls and boys found their work mostly experimental, dealing with fundamentals of good voice production. They learned correct breath control, good posture, and sight-reading, and, although the work was sometimes tedious, these students realized that it was absolutely necessary if they wished to improve as singers. Girls in the advanced glee club spent more time singing than the beginners and provided background music for the two Torchlight tappings, one in the fall, one in the spring.

The ultimate goal of all singers at GHS was a place in the choir. This year. the choir had no sooner returned from their summer concert trip to Nassau with the band than they began working toward an even greater achievement, a band-choir program in March for the American Bandmasters' Association. Choir members were especially eager io perform well because this was the ABA's first meeting with a secondary school as host, as well as the organization's first visit to Greensboro. Mr. M. Thomas Cousins, a well-known composer from Brevard College, wrote an operetta based upon the old English ballad "Barbara Allen," which was premiered by our groups at the March program.

BAND OFFICERS are Crumley. President Tumer, and Reerl.

Ninety-two talented musicians composed the outstanding symphonic band this year, directed by Mr. Herbert Hazelman. The widely traveled band maintained a reputation of excellence in both music and musician, not only in North Carolina, but in neighboring states and Nassau as well.

The band program was so arranged that each member received individual instruction from either Mr. Rooker, Mr. Decker, or Mr. Morgenstern plus their daily rehearsals. The success of this system was proved repeatedly - the GHS band took forty-six seats in the All-State Band and ten of the twelve first chairs. In addition to these honors, the band was the March host for the American Bandmasters Association.
The training and concert bands, following the example set for them by the symphonic band, also achieved a high standard of performance in preparation for further participation in the music program.

CAREFUL PLANNING and practice are evident in this Marching Band formation.

The GHS Marching Band once again stepped its way from football game to football game in rhythmic formation and expressive instrumentation. Diligent practice each day at seventh period produced the precision, unity, and musical prowess which has made the band well-known throughout the state.

Proudly sporting new uniforms complete with gleaming white hats, the band, accompanied by the majorettes in shimmering bluesequinned costumes, presented dazzling halftime spectacles. The majorettes performed their polished routines with grace and skill attained only through hours of work.

MJorettes: Head Majorette Lane, Keen, Earle, McIntire, Nuckolls, Edwards, Steed, Kater.

Marching Band parades at half-time programs

For the members of the band, the many hours of practice and special instruction paid great dividends in the form of an eightday trip to Nassau in July, 1962. Together, band and choir musicians frolicked in the tropic sun and climaxed their stay with a polished performance for the people of Nassau and distinguished officials.

Immediately members began a double campaign to raise money for the trip and also to prepare themselves for this extremely important program. In the fall it was not unusual to see lights burning in the music building long after school was dismissed, as young musicians worked to produce their best possible tones. After endless practice and rehearsals with Mr. Harriman and his assistants, the big day finally came. In Chicago, the group performed with such excellence that they received a standing ovation from hundreds of music educators from all parts of America.

Euterpe-Symphonia musicians entertain each other

Meeting monthly to discuss, perform, and enjoy the music of great composers, the talented members of Euterpe-Symphonia increased their musical knowledge and skill. Keeping in mind the club objective - to study, practice, and preserve the best in music, as well as to develop leadership, poise, and musical appreciation - each person presented a minimum of one recital for fellow club members during the year. The highlight of Euterpe activities came in April, when senior musicians competed in a formal recital for the honor of performing for the Senior Euterpe Club.

Aided by two advisors, the group was also active in community projects. They supported the newly formed Little Orchestra Guild and helped the North Carolina Symphony in their annual fund-raising drive.

Besides holding fall and spring tappings, Torchlight members sponsored their annual talent show, the proceeds of which they contributed toward a $$ 300$ scholarship for a deserving senior not a member of the honor society. In the spring several delegates attended the state convention at Raleigh, where they met other honor students to discuss and exchange ideas. Fostering an interest in the Spanish language and culture, the Greensboro chapter of Socledad Honoraria Hispanica spent a rewarding year carrying out their projects and programs. Qualifications for membership were an average of ninety for two consecutive semesters of Spanish and a genuine desire to continue studying the language. Varied and stimulating programs presented throughout the year included an exhibition of Spanish singing and dancing, speakers from Spanish-speaking countries, a dinner meeting in April at which Spanish dishes were served, and a spring picnic. To climax the year, the Spanish Honor Society awarded a $$ 25$ savings bond to the student who had attained the highest average in Spanish for his three years in high school.

Future Teachers of America entertain the GHS

FACILTY enjoy the friendly tribute of FTA tea in their honor.

One group of students at GHS championed the cause of our overworked and not fully appreciated educators. During Teacher Appreciation Week, they honored GHS instructors with a tea at the WC Alumnae House.

These young helpers performed various tasks for teachers to alleviate their ponderous loads. Some helped them with their eternal paperwork. Others were often found with sponges and pails of water, doing their duty at the always-ready-to-be-cleaned blackboards. A few traveled to Brooks School to help in directing the children at recess and in minor classroom activities.

Playmasters' major 1963 production is Jane Eyre

During the fall semester the members of Playmasters presented several one-act plays, placing special emphasis on theatrical makeup, scenery design, and techniques in acting. These presentations held added significance for the drama students because the scripts had been written by the versatile actors themselves. With the tortures of removing makeup, standing under broiling stage lights, and reciting lines to unsympathetic mirrors, the members were realistically inducted into the acting clique. Would-be actors were often found selling play tickets, painting scenery, or expounding their theories on democracy in speeches to gain the coveted one hundred points required for membership in Playmasters.

The group selected Charlotte Bronte's famous Jane Eyre for spring presentation to elementary students as well as the general public. Two one-act plays performed in the district drama festival at Guilford College culminated the year's theatrical efforts for the Playmasters. This contest was a rewarding experience for the drama enthusiasts, as they were able to pit their talents against other dramatists in the district. Because of the Playmasters' membership in the Carolina Dramatic Association, several delegates represented the group in district and state acting conventions.

HIGH LIFE editors are Pritchard, Ingber, Strange, Wagoner. Bundy, and Advinur Mrs. Woodlief.

Once again the High Life staff managed to publish Grimsley's bi-monthly paper - and usually on time for its scheduled distribution. As the editors hounded their harried writers for sufficient copy, the first year journalism students were busily procuring ads for their relentless manager. After a hard hitting subscription campaign the staff turned its energies toward producing an informative and entertaining edition to satisfy the hunger for news-starved students.

The end of a Friday's frantic distribution marked only the beginning of two more weeks of frenzied efforts to meet the impending deadline. In a zany attempt to create more interest in the physical aspects of GHS, the staff sponsored a Window-pane-counting contest.

High Life editors try to stimulate student thought

HIGH LIFE STAFF members: Coffey, Lee, Patterson. Kendrick, Perry, Bostick, and Turpin.

To stimulate student thought and to urge the institution of much-needed reforms, the editors sought to present provocative articles and critical humor columns. Sports fans found exciting recaps and action shots of Whirlie contest, while "Whirlie Words" analyzed specific plays and promoted student attendance at the games. Features ranged from Bedtime Stories to an interview with a famous television personality. In a regular column, the student government informed readers of projects and school business.

The staff emphasized well-planned layouts and polished writing, and under the direction of their advisor, Mrs. Woodlief, endeavored to produce a paper with articles of interest to all Grimsley students.

SORTING subscription blanks is only one of numerous tacks which produee a limonthly publication.

THREE TOP positions on the staff are held by editor II innton. advisor Powell, and literary editor Newby.

Plans for the 1963 Whirligig were made long before the 1962 book was distributed. September brought the paramount job of picture taking handled well by class editors. Business manager Kelley Hunter sparked master salesmanship in the solociting crew who eloquentely presented to Greensboro merchants the advantages of yearbook advertising. On the literary side, the staff wrote copy in exact lengths only to revise it when editor Phyllis Winston changed layouts in the dummy. Writers were further educated in the art of producing accurate, well-written copy by literary editor Suzi Newby. Never without his camera was George Touchstone, whose excellent pictures saved considerable amounts on the cost of photography. John Bercaw and assistant Dave Layton mounted pictures and entertained the staff.

None of the ventures would have been successful without the expert guidance of Miss Virginia Powell. As the February 15 deadline drew closer, typists' fingers rapidly prepared pages for the printer. Unhappy cries of "I've lost my Homecoming copy!" or "Oh, no, the student council layout has been changed!" echoed through room V61. Finally the massive undertaking of producing this yearbook was completed, and junior and sophomore staff members turned their thoughts toward next year's book.

They met as a club, with programs and discussions, on alternate Tuesdays during assembly.

Recognition of ability came to Sara Ann Lynch at the district meeting of library assistants held in October at Reidsville. There she was elected district president, and Susan Scott was elected reporter. In April several of the assistants went to Winston-Salem for the state meeting at the Robert E. Lee Hotel. There they attended a banquet and dance, as well as group discussions.

Sometimes the librarians and their helpers met at a cafeteria for dinner together. In May they gathered in Miss Herring's back yard for their final social meeting of the year.

Responsibilities increase for 39 GHS bus drivers

For every GHS bus driver the increase in enrollment brought new responsibilities, as many additional riders traveled in the orange squadron. The drivers carried out their jobs with skill, ease, and confidence in spite of added duties. Stressing safety and dependability, they drove over 22,000 miles each month, carrying 3.100 students to and from sixteen schools in the area every day. The thirty-nine drivers, boasting four girls in their number. proved themselves capable of dealing with difficult situations and fulfilling the strict safety requirements imposed upon them. Lives of these bus drivers were not entirely filled with work, however; they met monthly for an informal, sociable supper with their constant friend and advisor, Mr. Lody Glenn.

Running errands, welcoming visitors, answering phones, and checking schedules only began the list of duties of an office assistant. Callers were greeted by a friendly voice on the phone saying "Hello, this is Senior High School. May I help you?" Efficient assistants in the guidance center abated confusion with accurate appointment calendars. Another group of volunteers was composed of boys who aided Mr. Glenn in his tremendous task of issuing books by counting, numbering, and checking the vol-ums before sending them to classes. Their already complicated job was made even more so by the onslaught of an unusually large sophomore class. Always behind the scenes, but quite vital to school activities was the stage crew to whom goes credit for lighting, sound and curtain effects in assemblies and numerous programs. Students in need of last-minute pencils, paper, or pens were grateful to school store assistants who processed and then dispensed the supplies to a steady stream of customers.

DECORATING for dances is one duty all student council members enjoy.

Each student council member's foremost duty was to relay accurate and lucid reports to homerooms and to take student suggestions back to the council meetings for consideration. The handsome new suggestion box made by Mr. Parkerson and donated by the council was a constant reminder of the role each student must play in school goverument.

In September, representatives presented a special orientation program to introduce sophomores to their new surroundings. Considerable emphasis was placed on the observance of Honor Code Day on January 8. The two-fold program included speaker John Markas from Duke University and hour-long discussions during which students

The council, headed by Sally Jo Welch, received encouraging response from the student body, and postgame dances were invariably crowded and gay.

In the fall the council distributed identification cards, necessary for student admission to the dances, as well as a set of conduct rules to be followed at YRC-sponsored activities. Games with Page High furnished opportunities for special joint open houses, some in our gym, some in the Page cafeteria.

Thirty-five squad members overcome traffic chaos

Members of the traffic squad patrolled before and after classes to alleviate the confusion of the stampede created by students changing classes. Under the leadership of Chief Lambeth, the squad transformed GHS's chaos of motion into almost orderly processions. On rainy days their duties were compounded, but with whistles, signals, and numerous shouts the mobs were directed to their proper destinations. The boys, watching over 2,200 students at Senior, kept the passage between buildings free from traffic congestion. With the guidance of their advisor, Mr. Whittemore, the traffic squad channeled GHS's largest sophomore class, stubbornest junior class, and slowest senior class to their correct classrooms. By carefully guarding the "up" and "down" stairs and the "in" and "out" doors, the squad prevented stray scholars from being trampled by their hurrying classmates.

Full of boundless vitality and enthusiasm, the Junior Civinettes served both the school and the city by giving time and raising money. On the first day of school, each sophomore received a Civinette nametag which became his passport to new acquaintances. Monday mornings during homeroom, Civinettes presented inspiring devotions over the public address system. December brought the club's annual fruitcake sale, during which the families of the community cooperated in buying 1400 pounds of the holiday cake. The money raised was used to buy a new scales for the girls' athletic department, to hang big, new mirrors in the girls' washrooms, and to buy more roses for their rose garden behind the auditorium. Other service projects included collecting for drives, taking underprivileged children to the movies, sending food to a family at Christmas, and donating old Disfrict conventions gave members a chance to meet new people and to exchange ideas about projects. The state convention, held in Burlington in April, was a successful business meeting of Civitans and Civinettes.

Friday afternoons after school the girls vigorously applied sponges and armwork to washing boards for the teachers. Again this year the club polished the athletic trophies in the main hall and gym showcases. They gained understanding by attending different churches in the city with the Civitans.

The club supported the athletic program by ushering at home football games and by flying the Victory Flag after every Whirlie sports triumph. At the beginning of each game, football players darted through a goalpost banner donated by the Civitans.

By distributing pocket bulletins as reminders of the games, they stimulated interest in GHS sports. The boys collected for several charities and contributed clothes and toys to the cerebral palsy school at Raleigh. Services they performed were financed by their annual fruitcake sale. ## Junior Jaycees serve school and community with WHIRLIBIRD and friend are mascots at athletic events.

The Junior Jaycees, members of one of the oldest clubs at GHS, began their year of work with a zeal and spirit traditional for the group. Incoming sophomores were graciously introduced to the quick pace of high school life in a letter of welcome from thoughful Junior Jaycees. The greeting briefly explained activities at GHS and informed the new students of some of their many service projects.

After a successful combo in November featuring the Delacardos, the group participated in the sponsorship of Co-Recreation night. In the competition the Junior Jaycees gained the largest number of points in the activities, which included peanut rolls, shav-ing-cream fights, and three-legged races.

The Whirlibird, ingeniously adapted from the 1956 Whirligig, continued to boost school spirit, adding a lively touch to each game with his antics. The annual "Name the Whirlibird" contest, created by the group, was held during homecoming, with a fifty-dollar gift certificate from Johnson and Aubbert presented to the winner in the drawing. Once again the presence of the club beauty, "Miss Whirlibird." contributed humor and good spirit to the homecoming festivities.

Money carned by the group was donated for a three hundred dollar scholarship which was awarded to a deserving senior. The traditional Roger Hobbs trophy presented by the Junior Jaycees to the school's most outstanching athlete was also an incentive to GHS students. The club treasury made possible payments on the invaluable scoreboard in the stadium. By helping with the GGO and on paper drives, the Junior Jaycees achieved an impressive record of service to the city.

Although they have been together only one short year, the members of the Junior Exchange Club have utilized their time and energy well in performing services for both school and community. Sponsored by the Senior Exchange Club of Greensboro, these boys began their year with a campaign to help boost school spirit. They awarded a plaque to the homeroom which had the most students in attendance at the GHS-Page football game. At the Homecoming game members distributed over five hundred bags of confetti which added color and life to a traditional GHS spectacle. Both the orchestra and the pep board benefited from Exchange Club generosity, for each of these organizations was presented a gift of money - the orchestra's to be used for their trip to Chicago, the pep board's for their school spirit campaign.

Not only did the Exchange Club see the needs of fellow students, but they also worked to improve the lot of our instructors. Throughout the year the boys joined members of other service clubs in collecting for various charity drives, and in January they were able to contribute more money to the March of Dimes than any of the other boys' clubs which participated. Another joint project with the other clubs was the Co-Rec Night, a successful facsimile of the annual game classic at the University of North Carolina. At their annual student assembly in March, the group presented a thought-provoking speaker. Although they usually met weekly at the Mayfair Cafeteria, the boys occasionally enjoyed special programs, such as a tour of the WFMY-TV station.

Little Orchestra Guild promotes music appreciation

Our school's youngest organization, the Little Orchestra Guild, was formed this September in an effort to stimulate music appreciation among its members and to help promote the concerts of Greensboro's Little Orchestra Society. Club members began a profitable year by selling season tickets to a series of concerts by the Little Orchestra and later became ushers for these and similar events. The guild showed service to the school as they helped promote the performances of GHS music groups. The programs presented at their Monday night meetings were many and varied, including such distinguished speakers as Dean Lee Rigsby of the music department at Woman's College.

In December Demolays delighted children at the Masonic Home with a colorful and exciting Christmas party. In addition to this and other charity projects carried out at Thanksgiving and Easter, the group collected funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Drive. The DE program taught "everything from a liber in cloth-making to a new outlook in life." DE'ers came to realize that success in work meant enthusiasm, team work, following instructions, being able to get along with fellow employees. Rewards included more self-confidence. an awareness of responsibility, and a feeling of independence.

D. O. students learn to combine books and careers

 Bell prochund director, Viso Jedment.
"The business world" is a phrase conveying special significance to 38 students who selected office careers this year. Each worker acquired first-hand knowledge of business and played a vital part in Greensboro firms as part-time helpers. During the afternoon busy DO members put into practice skills polished at school in the morning. In the elected work-experience program the group had an opportunity to discover types of positions available to beginning employees. Working as bookkeepers, stenographers. telephone operators, and receptionists, students increased their proficiency and usefulness. Placement in office positions required qualifications equal to those of full-time employees. By meeting these high standards, the students were offered permanent jobs in froms which employed them as learning workers. Although carrying a heavy load of school work plus outside jobs, each one found personal satisfaction in this cooperative program and in meeting challenges.

Industrial Co-operative Training provided thirty-eight students an opportunity to gain a better understanding of the various trades with which they were in daily contact. By attending school for half a day and working in the afternoon, members were able to gain valuable experience in their fields of interest. By utilization of school facilities, factories, and shops, the students became better acquainted with their future occupations.

The classes published a newsletter, VICtory, which included articles about vocational students, editorials, and ICT pledges.

The annual state convention of the Vocational Industrial Club, of which ICT is a member chapter, was planned by this group

ADVERTISING

Dear Advertisers and Sponsors,
The publication of a yearbook requires the assistance of many people and incurs large financial expenses. Without you the publishing of the 1963 Whirligig would have been impossible, for the many supporters of a yearbook are indispensable.

You, our Advertisers and Sponsors, have given you whole-hearted support. We wish to express our sincere gratitude and thanks to those who have made this issue of Whirligig possible.

A Note of Appreciation

A yearbook is published only through the generosity and complete support of many people behind the scenes. To those who have given their valuable time and aid to make the 1963 Whirligig a success, we wish to express our deep appreciation. MR. FRANK FLEMING and MR. EARL POWELL deserve warm thanks for their invaluable advice and help with the printing of our book. At Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company we say thank you to MR. RALPH VAN DIKE, MISS MOLLI FLANDERS, and the many expert craftsmen for the dummy and the superior engravings you produced. To MR. MALCOLM MILLER, whose patience, promptness, and good-naturedness were as valuable as the high quality of his pictures, we express our gratitude. To MR. E. L. THOMAS, too, we express thanks for supplying pictures of special events. At Meyer's Studio we say thank you to MRS. BETTY HAND for doing such a good job on the individual pictures for the class sections and for doing many of them in the summer so we could mount them early. We wish to thank MR. JOHN CATHEY of the Greensboro Record and MR. ROI MATHERLI of the Greensboro Daily News for generously supplying us with good action shots for our sports section.
The complete cooperation of the faculty has helped us more than we can say. Special thanks go to MRS. MARGARET HADDEN and MRS. KATHRIN McENTIRE for the use of their rooms, typewriters, and telephones. MISS JOINER deserves warm thanks for her understanding when a deadline was near. In keeping the finances in order and writing our checks MISS IDA BELLE MOORE, MRS. JESSIE COLTRANE, and MISS ROWENA MONTAGUE performed a necessary service we deeply appreciate. To every homeroom teacher who collected Whirligig money and let staff members give sales talks during homeroom period, we say thank you. We are grateful to MR. ROUTH and MR. GLENN for making announcements, providing a new typewriter and bulletin board, and taking money to the bank. To the merchants, businessmen, and individual sponsors of our book, we say thank you for your interest and financial support. Most important of all is MISS VIR GINIA POWELL, our advisor, who worked extra hours, corrected our many blunders, and taught us much about publishing an annual. Thank you is not enough we would have been lost without you!
To all of these people who made another edition of the Whirligig possible, we give warmest thanks and the wish that the 1963 Whirligig is a book you will be proud to own.
